

Offering caring support when you need it most.

If you or a family member has been diagnosed with cancer or has risk factors, the numbers are telling. One in three Americans will have cancer at some point in their lives.¹ The Cancer Support Program (CSP) is here to help.

How does it work?

If you've begun or are preparing for cancer treatment, a nurse can help you navigate treatment options and help you find a network provider from a Centers of Excellence (COE) facility. Here's what you can expect:

Connect with a nurse specially trained in oncology for support—and throughout your treatment journey.

Get help exploring your options, finding answers to questions and managing symptoms and side effects.

Receive support working with your doctors, so you can feel more informed to make decisions for your health.

Since 2007, this program has supported more than 100,000 members diagnosed with cancer.²

97% of members were satisfied with their Cancer Support nurse.³

*This also includes plan participants for a self-funded plan administered by Oxford.
